Casino World suit returned for hearing

BY ED LEPOMA

The Mississippi Supreme Court has remanded back to Hancock County Chancery Court a challenge to permits issued the Casino World project planned south of Diamondhead.

In a decision handed down by the high court on July 23, justices reversed and remanded an earlier decision by Judge J.N. Randall, which threw out all issues raised by citizens and environmentalist groups.

The court ruled that the case be returned to the lower court in Hancock County for a hearing on the merits.

Last February, in a 22-page ruling, Randall upheld an earlier decision by the state Commission on Environmental Quality (CEQ), which had issued a water quality certification permit needed before construction could proceed on the proposed $200 million gambling/resort complex planned off the south exit of Interstate 10.

And, last March, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Mobile issued the final permit needed for construction, even though a challenge to the project was still pending before the state Supreme Court.

The Casino World project is proposed to be developed by Florida-based Europa Cruises Corp., which is looking for a venturing partner, and Tuesday that corporation's highest ranking official said she was not upset by the Supreme Court's decision to send the matter back to Chancery Court in Hancock County.

Deborah A. Vitale, President and Chairman of the Board of Europa, said the decision was a temporary setback, but, in no way, would it delay Europa's intentions to go forward with the Casino World project once financing is in place.

She labeled as "pure nonsense" reports that the project was on hold.

"As soon as we can obtain financing, we will begin," said Vitale. "These environmentalists lawsuits are detrimental to our financing, but this project is

Europa survives proxy challenge

BY ED LEPOMA

For the second year in a row, directors of Europa Cruises Corp. have beat back a proxy challenge by dissident shareholders.

Europa, which plans to build the $200 million Casino World gambling and resort complex off the south Diamondhead exit of Interstate 10 in Hancock County, this week released the official results of voting following its annual meeting of shareholders, which took place at the Grand Casino in Biloxi on July 10.

The annual meeting was reconvened on July 24 for the purpose of receiving the official results of the election, and Europa reported a total of 19,757,791 votes cast.

Of those, 12,866,980 or approximately 65 percent of shareholders voted to keep in office the incumbent four-member Board of Directors. These are: Deborah A. Vitale, John R. Duber, Paul J. DeMattia and Gregory A. Harrison.

Europa reported a total of 6,757,658 shares, or approximately 34 percent, voted for the opposition slate. Approximately 133,000 votes were withheld.

Vitale, who serves as president and chairman of the Board of Europa, was encouraged by the results, but said the proxy challenge was both time-consuming to management and expensive to the company.

"There are no winners in a proxy contest," said Vitale. "This small company has been through two expensive, time-consuming proxy contests in the last sixteen months." She estimated the initial proxy battle cost Europa approximately $425,000, but the more recent

Juvenile charged with possession

BY R.R. HAWKINS

A Waveland juvenile was arrested Saturday, July 24 at approximately 8:30 p.m., at the intersection of Hixlihy and Singleton streets in Waveland for possession of marijuana and crack cocaine.

Shane Corr, director of the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force, said Officer Mike Hearty of the Waveland Police Department observed the youth walking away from a 1984 Oldsmobile Cutlass. The officer, upon approaching the youth, smelled alcohol and asked

Coastal Family Health reopens clinic in the Bay

BY ED LEPOMA

The safety net jerked away from Hancock County's poor and elderly almost three years ago is back in place.

Without much fanfare, the Coastal Family Health network reopened its clinic Wednesday in 4,000 square feet of renovated space on the east end of the Market Town Shopping Center off Dunbar Ave. and U.S. Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

And, everyone involved in the grand (re)opening ceremonies gave much of the credit for Coastal returning to the tireless efforts of community activist Geraldine Lang.

Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar said Lang never relented in her determination to see Coastal return to Hancock County when it seemed everyone else gave up. "She carried the torch," said Kellar.

Hancock County supervisors likened Lang's determination to that of a pit bull. Once she's got her teeth sunk into something, she's not giving it up, they often agreed.

It was Lang who hollered loudest when Coastal announced in September of 1995 that because of budget restraints, it would close its Hancock County Clinic. The closure forced hundreds of the county's poor and elderly to seek medical assistance at Coastal's clinics in Gulfport or Biloxi, but many did not even have transportation to get there.

Lang, with the help of Rev. Lee Morris and a group of concerned citizens, in December of 1995 formed a group called Guardian Angel and established a bank account to accept donations for the purpose of returning Coastal to Hancock County. They asked each individual who had previously received services at the clinic to contribute at least $1 a month to the special account.

In a time when money was tight, the group also successfully lobbied the Board of Supervisors to keep in the budget its $10,000 yearly appropriation to the clinic's operations. And, supervisors offered use of the old County Health Department building on Dunbar Avenue rent-free, if Coastal got renewed federal funding. Supervisors also sent resolutions to

Kids Fishing Rodeo set for Saturday

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

The 14th Gulf Coast Sportsman Club Kids Fishing Rodeo is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 1, 7 a.m. - 5 p.m.

The rodeo is open for boys and girls ages 13 and under, according to Gary Elmer, rodeo chairman.

The rodeo headquarters will be at Pavilion No. 1 at Buccaneer State Park, Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

Registration is free, and forms will be available at the rodeo headquarters until 2 p.m. rodeo day, or at Sam Perniciaro's Garage, Old Spanish Trail.

In the freshwater division, prizes will be awarded for the largest green trout (bass) and perch.

Prizes will be awarded in the saltwater division for the largest speckled trout, redfish, white trout, flounder, croaker, ground mullet and largest fish.

A king fisherman and a queen fisherette will be selected from ages 8-13.

"The rodeo's officials will not be responsible for under-sized fish," warned Sam Perniciaro, club president.

"No undersized fish will be accepted, and parents are urged to have their children comply with state and federal regulations (on speckled trout and redfish), Perniciaro added.

He also emphasized no catfish or stingrays will be accepted.

"This is for the safety of the children participating," Perniciaro said.

There will be a special crab

Correction

In a July 23 story, The Echo reported Hugh David "Butch" Hill, 46, of Bay St. Louis, was killed at 6:30 p.m. in an accident Sunday, July 19, at his home. Information given to the Echo was incorrect. Mr. Hill, according to his wife, was killed at 8:30 a.m. The Echo regrets the error.

BSL Little Theatre Looks for cast in 'Three Tall Women'

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will hold auditions for its late-October early-November production of "Three Tall Women" at 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9, at the BSLTT Playhouse at 301 Boardman Ave.

The play, by critically acclaimed playwright Edward Albee won the 1994 Pulitzer Prize for drama.

Nan Ehrbright, who will direct the BSLTT production, said, "Three Tall Women" is one of her favorite Albee plays.

"It has a lot of humor in it, the characters come across as real people, and it is not as unceasingly angry and savage as, for instance 'Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe,'" she said.

The play has challenging roles for three women — one young, one middle-aged and one elderly or capable of portraying an aging woman.

It also has a choice role for a young man who wants to try his hand onstage but is worried about learning lines. The sole male in the play must act, but has no lines.

Persons interested in reading the script beforehand, or who want to try out but cannot do so at the scheduled audition time, may call Ehrbright at 467-6683 weekdays or 467-5583 evenings.

Enjoy a night out August 4

On Aug. 4, Bay St. Louis will slam the door on crime as an active partner in the "15th Annual National Night Out" campaign. Bay St. Louis residents will be meeting with their local patrol officers, special Operations Division officers, the Chief of Police and elected officials in the comfort of their own neighborhoods.

The National Night Out theme is "Give Neighborhood Crime and Drugs a Going Away Party," and 12 neighborhoods have signed up to participate to date in Bay St. Louis.

"We all want safe neighborhoods. It's time to stop the talk and walk the walk Aug. 4, 7-9 p.m. in Bay St. Louis. Sign up your neighborhood today," said Chief Frank McNeil.

Lt. Don Ocho, event coordinator, outlines how residents can participate and help organize their neighborhood to support this city-wide effort in crime prevention and neighborhood protection:

1. Make a phone call! Call 467-9221 and say, "National Night Out" to register your block and get more details.

2. Make a phone call! Call the neighbors to your right and invite them to share a night out.

Prenatal classes offered at HMC

Expectant parents and their guests are invited to attend a free series of six prenatal and childbirth classes sponsored by the First Impressions Department at Hancock Medical Center.

Instruction focuses on nutrition, physical changes during pregnancy and preparation for breastfeeding. Breathing relaxation techniques and alternatives for labor management are also taught.

These classes culminate with a segment on infant care. Preparation for the birthing experience will be the focus of Aug. 12, 19 and 26 classes, 7:30-9 p.m. in the HMC Business and Education Complex. Prenatal classes will be Sept. 9, 16 and 23.

Door prizes and refreshments will be offered to participants.

For information or to register, contact the First Impressions Department at 467-9282.

Area teachers attend AP training at Millsaps

Bay High School teacher Kelly A. Bowles of Diamondhead and Pass Christian High School Teacher La Wanda Singleton of Pass Christian attended the 16th annual Advanced Placement Institute July 12-17 at Millsaps College in Jackson, along with 85 other teachers from Mississippi and surrounding states in attendance.

The Millsaps Advanced Placement Institute is the only training for AP teachers offered in Mississippi.

Experienced AP instructors led workshops in biology, calculus, English composition and literature, and U.S. history. Millsaps professors from the respective departments also came to speak with the groups about topics of interest.

Each group reviewed sample AP tests, textbooks, handouts and other resource materials and then developed a simple course curriculum.

"This was perhaps the best institute I have ever attended," said Diane Godaker of Lake Charles, La. "The instructor was practical and yet challenging, and the material can be used in other situations. I wish that every teacher could have an experience like that, because it just renews you and makes you anxious to start the next year."

Millsaps College is a privately supported college founded in 1890 and is affiliated with the United Methodist Church.

Suspect caught on tape

Surveillance tapes from the Diamondhead BP, 107 North Interstate Exchange, Diamondhead shows the robbery suspect as he approaches the check out counter Saturday, July 23. The robbery, which under investigation by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, took place at approximately 4:30 p.m. Sheriff's Deputy Capt. Matt Karl is leading the investigation.

Diamondhead robber slips away on foot

Diamondhead BP Clerk Patricia Young watched the clean-cut robber place his small automatic pistol in his pants and calmly walk out of her store at 107 North Interstate Exchange in Diamondhead and disappear into the distance Saturday afternoon, July 23.

"She said she thought the guy must have been former military or law enforcement," said Criminal Investigator Capt. George Burleson of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. "She said the robber was polite, extremely calm and held his pistol in a two-handed stance. He was clean-shaven with a closely cropped haircut."

Hancock County Deputies responding to the call at approximately 4:30 p.m. Saturday searched the area around the convenience store and came up empty-handed.

"At this time we do not have a suspect," said Capt. Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. "But we do have a video surveillance tape that might help in identifying a suspect."

Karl encouraged anyone who might identify the photographs from the tape, or who might have information concerning the robbery at the Diamondhead BP Saturday afternoon, July 23, to call the Hancock County Sheriff's office at 467-5101 and ask to speak to Capt. Matt Karl or Capt. George Burleson. Deputy Avery Lieb is assisting in the investigation.

The Mississippi Contract Procurement Center in Biloxi has been awarded a $300,000 Department of Defense continuing education grant for the Procurement Technical Assistance Cooperative Agreement, announced South Mississippi Congressman Gene Taylor.

Taylor, who has helped sponsor the group's annual procurement seminar, said he was pleased to see the group's contract renewed. "They have been very helpful in assisting small businesses, particularly in their efforts to do business with the government," Taylor said.

Space Center sponsors Remote Sensing Verification and Validation Symposium

The Commercial Remote Sensing Program Office at Stennis Space Center will host a Remote Sensing Verification and Validation Symposium Aug. 4-6.

The purpose of the symposium is to present the results of the development phase of the Verification and Validation Program to representatives of the commercial remote sensing community.

Remote sensing uses sensors, either on aircraft or satellites, to observe the Earth's surface. The information gathered by these sensors can be used to make accurate maps.

The Verification and Validation Program is an effort to establish a nationwide network of ground truthing sites for commercial and government remote sensing systems. Ground truthing is necessary to verify that the data acquired by these systems accurately represent what is occurring on the ground.

Part of ground truthing involves using a special ground verification site that works like a specialized eye chart to determine if a sensor is working properly.

mine the resolution and accuracy of remote sensors. A ground verification site has been constructed at Stennis Space Center, based on industry input at the 1997 Verification and Validation Workshop, where NASA and industry representatives laid the groundwork for cooperation in this area.

"During the past year, the Verification and Validation Team developed several skills, tools and techniques to make sure that remotely sensed data from new commercial sources will meet the customer needs," said NASA's Jeff Jenner, the verification and validation project manager at Stennis.

"Right now, our primary customer is NASA's Earth Science Enterprise. We've just completed the validation of several sample commercial data sets that NASA can purchase for the Earth science community. Buying data 'by-the-megabyte,' rather than developing and operating our own sensor systems, encourages private companies to share cost and risk with the government. NASA should then be able to do the same science for less cost. But first, we must bring these commercial products up to scientific standards, which requires lots of documentation and independent testing."

This year's Verification and Validation Symposium will present those new skills, tools and techniques to the commercial remote sensing community. Team members and benchmarking partners will present papers on topics that include: large scale verification targets, ISO 9000 and remote sensing, atmospheric measurement systems, and the validation process for commercial Earth science data.

Several group discussions will give industry representatives a chance to help steer the V&V program in key verification technology area.

Symposium attendance is open to all interested parties, though seating is limited, and registration is required. For information, contact Royce Williams at (228) 688-2429.

VFW honors commander

The Department of Mississippi announced that Eugene L. Schloegel of Bay St. Louis has achieved All-American status as a Post Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Commander Schloegel will be recognized at the 99th annual VFW national convention in San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 28-Sept. 4 by VFW Commander-in-Chief John E. Moon.

Moon said, "Schloegel, Commander of Post 3253 in Bay St. Louis, is one of only 53 VFW Post Commanders world-wide selected for All American status. The Department sets the criteria for this honor which is based on outstanding achievement in membership growth, Buddy Poppy sales and other VFW programs that benefit veterans and their communities. The title of All American Commander is one of the most prestigious honors given by our organization."

Founded in 1899 by veterans of the Spanish-American War, the VFW is the nation's oldest major veterans organization. Its 2 million members represent all the services and all the wars and conflicts of the 20th century.

Knudsen named director

The Mississippi Chapter of the March of Dimes welcomes Jan Knudsen as the new Community Director for the chapter's Coast Division which includes 17 counties in south Mississippi. She will be responsible for coordinating fund-raising events and other special projects that support the foundation's mission to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality.

Knudsen worked as a branch manager for South Trust Bank, served as the executive director of the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce, and earned a certificate in Chamber of Commerce management from Stanford University before coming to work for the March of Dimes.

A native of Dixon, Ill., she and her husband, Jeff, a retired U.S. Air Force officer, first lived in Biloxi during the 1970's. The family returned to the area from California in 1993.

Genin Street fire

The Bay St. Louis Fire Department responded to an early morning structure fire Monday, July 27, at the home of Estelle Soffra, 501 Genin Street, Bay St. Louis. Firefighters, who arrived at 2:16 a.m., found a storage shed on fire. Eleven firefighters with two engines worked approximately an hour to extinguish the fire and make sure the home was safe. Damage to the house and nearby truck was reported.

Accident shuts down Diamondhead Drive

BY B. R. HAWKINS

A two-car accident that involved four children shut down Diamondhead Drive North for about two hours Sunday afternoon, July 25, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy John Bourgeois.

Off-duty Waveland Police Officer David A. Legros, 26, of Diamondhead, was turning south on Diamondhead Drive off Kalamita Drive when Kirk C. Barras, 43, of Kiln, hit Legros' white 1994 police cruiser.

Bourgeois said Barras, who was driving a red 1986 Ford half-ton pickup pulling a 20-foot boat and trailer, was attempting to stop when his brakes locked and he slid into Legros' truck. Damage to both vehicles was reported heavy.

The accident report indicates Barras was traveling too fast for road conditions and registered .222 on the alcohol breath analyzer. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

The four children riding with Legros in the police cruiser were transported to Hancock Medical Center by AMR and Diamondhead Fire Department. A hospital spokeswoman said the children were treated and released.

Domestic call turns up $700 in crack cocaine

BY B. R. HAWKINS

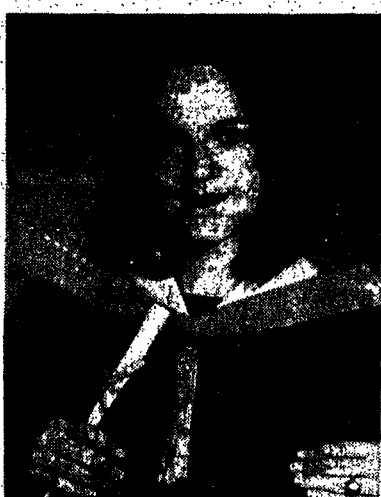

Bay St. Louis Police Officers Matt Carver and Martin Holloway responded to a domestic violence call at 420 Washington Street, Saturday evening, July 23 at approximately 8:20 p.m.

The officers, according to Shane Corr, director of the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force, investigated the premises and arrested Charles Sellestine, 41, of 420 Washington Street and charged him with one count of domestic violence and one count of possession of marijuana. He was taken to the Hancock County Justice Facility where County Deputy Sid Davis discovered 15 rocks of crack cocaine hidden away in Sellestine's pocket.

"The street value of the cocaine," said Corr "is estimated at approximately $700."

Sellestine was additionally charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell. His bond was set at $15,000. Task Force Agent Jeff Hair is in charge of the investigation.

Center honors employee

Every three months Methodist Children's Center, 162 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, chooses among its staff the employee they feel excels in the qualities of performance, attendance and attitude. Kay Morris of Wave-land was given this honor for June, July and August.

Morris has been at MCC for seven years, longer than any other employee. She has worked with babies and two-year-olds mostly and has been in the nursery for almost three years.

She is married to Rod Morris, and they are the parents of Aaron, 13 and Amanda, 7. Amanda has been participating in MCC's Summer Camp program.

The entire family is active in sports, particularly baseball. Aaron belongs to two leagues; one is a traveling league that takes him along the Louisiana Gulf Coast. Amanda plays ball and husband plays softball and hardball.

Though Morris is interested in sports, she really enjoys working with babies and having a part in their growth and development. She says they keep her very busy and require a lot of patience.

"We feel Kay is a deserving recipient of the Employee of the Quarter award," said Laura Riser, MCC director.

Ricks Late Model Series continued at Sun Coast

The Ricks Late Model Series, which was rain delayed from their June 20 program at Sun Coast Speedway in Pass Christian, was continued Saturday night. With the threat of rain still present four weeks later, track officials and participants were determined to try and get the race in. All heat races had already been completed on the earlier date, only feature races remained on the program.

The first race to move on to the track, with a light sprinkle falling, was the Pro Stocks. Gary Joiner started on the front row alongside Randy Deschamp as the green flag flew. Joiner moved to the front and held a comfortable lead as he raced to the checkers.

Rodney Bruce and Mike Ladner battled for the third spot while Ronnie Roberts claimed the fifth position. Deschamp suffered a disqualification as an ineligible driver. This moved Bruce and Ladner up to a second and third place finish.

The 50-lap Ricks Late Model Series feature was the next field of cars to take the track. Larry Lambeth of Flomation, Ala. and Jason Smith of Laurel, headed the field as they took the green flag for the start of the race.

Smith came out of turn two in the lead with Lambeth in second. Mike Head of Atlanta, Ga. starting from the second row alongside Ray Hollifield of Laurel, moved into the third spot.

Head appeared to have mechanical problems before trying to signal the cars behind him of the situation. Several cars got together due to the incident, but all were able to stay in the race. Head was sent to the rear on the restart, which ended his bid to challenge for another win in the series.

While Smith and Lambeth battled for the top spot, Steve Russell of Pontotoc, Miss. and Jim McDuffie of Meridian managed to move past K. L. Davis of Poplarville taking over third and fourth. Hollifield also fell back into the pack finishing out of the top five.

Davis was able to hold off Mike Boland for the fifth place finish. Smith led every lap of the 50-lap race before picking up the win.

Several cars were involved in a pile-up as they came out of turn four headed for the checkers. Johnny Stokes had steering problems as he came out of turn four which collected up Eddie Rickman and several other cars. Fortunately no one was injured, although the cars sustained quite a bit of damage.

Donald Parker also went on a flag-to-flag run to claim the IMCA feature race over Chris Morand and Chuckie Smith. Parker and Brant Terello were both feature winners from the June 20 program.

Billy Riles made it two in a row as he won the Street Stock division. Michael Williams outdueling Rodney Barber for the second spot, while Steve Marsh and Anso Holley rounded out the top five. Ryles and Bubba Trotter were also heat race winners.

Jeremy Eaton added another heat and feature win to his list in the Rookie Class.

Adam Steinfeld will bring his illusionist-comedian act to Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday, July 31 and Saturday, August 1.

Steinfeld to perform at Magic Illusionist-comedian Adam Steinfeld will perform July 31 and Aug. 1 at 7:30 and 10 p.m. at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. Tickets for the event may be purchased for $9.95 plus tax at the Casino Magic Gift Shop and all Ticketmaster locations.

 Steinfeld is an illusionist-comedian whose live-wire exuberance and spellbinding effects involving audience members equals nonstop laughter. He incorporates and expands the classic illusions from levitation of an audience member to sawing-a-woman-in-thirds. The nonstop laughter of his illusions with never before seen effects like flying in the air while strumming on his guitar, to slicing his assistant in half, without even placing her in a box.
 He has earned praise from journalists and magic leaders alike. He won the first place trophy at the Florida State Society of American Magicians Convention in 1969, when he was barely 11 and again in 1975, with a comedy silent act.
 Steinfeld is author of the popular humor book Stupid Bar Tricks now in its fourth printing.
 He also earned the title of the World's Most Versatile Magician April Fool Day in 1988, when he shattered the Guinness Book of World Records in Magic by performing 102 magic tricks in 3 minutes 13 seconds. This event aired as a major news story and was featured on the international television show 'Just for the Record'.

Casino Magic equips casinos with lifesaving technology

Casino Magic announced it has equipped its three U.S. casinos located in Bay St. Louis, Biloxi and Bossier City, La., with automatic external defibrillators (AEDs) to treat victims of sudden cardiac arrest (SCA), one of the country's leading medical emergencies and causes of death.

Casino Magic purchased six of Hewlett-Packard Company's HP Heartstream ForeRunner AEDs, which were immediately placed in each of the casinos. Security officers at each property recently completed a training program to use the new devices.

"It is our hope that should the need arise, we can actively do something until medical professionals arrive on the scene. We have 14 security officers trained in how to use the ForeRunner AED and plan to train our entire security staff," said Gus Aime, director of security for Casino Magic Bay St. Louis.

The ForeRunner AED is used to apply defibrillation therapy, or an electrical charge, to the heart of SCA victims. According to the American Heart Association, the U.S. survival rate for SCA is 5 percent, largely because life-saving defibrillation — the definitive treatment for SCA — does not reach victims in time.

"We have been looking into implementing this program for some time," said Ed Ernst, president of Casino Magic Corp. "The American Heart Association has said that each minute from the time of attack until defibrillation reduces a victim's chance of survival by 10 percent, making it essential a race against time. By equipping our first response vehicles with defibrillators we will be able to significantly cut the time it takes to treat victims."

The HP Heartstream ForeRunner AED is a breakthrough in defibrillation technology and makes it practical for broad groups of emergency first responders (emergency medical technicians, fire department personnel, police officers, security officers, flight attendants and other authorized first responders) to deliver time critical defibrillation therapy to victims of sudden cardiac arrest.

It is the only FDA-cleared AED that incorporated low energy SMART Biphasic technology and was designed specifically to make the implementation of early response programs practical in communities, industrial settings and other public and private facilities.

Casino Magic Corp., with principal offices in Bay St. Louis, operates gaming casinos, through subsidiaries, in Bay St. Louis and Biloxi, Bossier City, La. and Neuquen City and San Martin de los Andes, Argentina.

Howze named manager

Blaine Howze has recently been named as manager of the Bay St. Louis office of Blossman Gas, Inc. Howze has been employed with the Gulfport office of Blossman Gas since 1994. As branch manager, Howze will oversee all operations of this location.

Jess Johnson, regional vice president, commented that Howze was selected for this position based on his past performance in the Gulfport office. "Having previous experience in utility and gas sales makes Blaine more than qualified to serve in this capacity," Johnson said.

Howze is a lifelong resident of the Gulf Coast. He and his wife, Lisa, are the parents of two children.

Headquartered in Ocean Springs, Blossman Gas has 73 retail locations serving over 140,000 customers in eight southeastern states. Ranked as the 13th largest propane retailer in the U.S., Blossman was founded in 1951, and has been under the same ownership since that time.

A Place of Art VII calls for artist entries

The Old Town Bay St. Louis Merchant Association is accepting artist entries for the annual A Place of Art VII. Recognized as one of the primary juried art exhibitions and sales in the Gulf South, the weekend show will take place on the streets of Old Town Bay St. Louis Sept. 26-27.

Awards for A Place of Art VII are: first place, $1,000; second place, $500; and third place, $250. The entry fee is $75 per artist, which includes the two major events and Patrons' Party ticket and exhibition and sale space ground at the event.

Charter artists (those having participated in each of the previous six events) have a reduced entry fee of $50 per artist. For information or artist entry forms, contact Carole Bianco at (228) 468-6337.

Hearing — Permits challenged not delayed and will not be delayed.

Vitale also said she intends to look into possibly filing legal action against those opposing the project.

"I'm looking into taking action against these people for abuse of process and malicious prosecution," said Vitale.

About the high court's decision to send the suit back to Hancock County Chancery Court, Vitale said, "It is apparent from the decision... that the Supreme Court was reluctant to have this case dismissed without giving the complainants their day in court. The decision simply means that the case must be heard by the lower court."

Speaking on the merits of the case, Vitale added, "The Mississippi Commission on Marine Resources, which granted the permit, has stated in documents filed with the lower court, that it complied with all procedural requirements relevant to grants of permits and use adjustments at issue, that its decision to grant the permit and use adjustment was grounded upon legally sufficient evidentiary grounds, and there were no proper grounds at law warranting reversal of its decision to grant the permit. We completely concur with this assessment," said Vitale.

The Bay St. Louis Community Association, Inc., Concerned Citizens to Protect the Point and Isles, Inc., the Gulf Islands Conservancy, Inc., and Protect Diamondhead Quality Inc., had sued the CEQ, the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission (which will lease the water bottoms for the casino barges), and Casino World Inc., following a full-scale evidentiary hearing before the CEQ in Jackson, which upheld that agency's previous decision to issue the permit.

In their appeal, opponents contended that certification by the CEQ should have been denied because the CEQ failed to require Casino World to submit dredging plans, failed to consider adverse cumulative impacts of the projects and failed to require submission of essential plans and specifications prior to certification, and should have looked at alternative sites.

"To the contrary," Randall noted in his February opinion, dismissing the suit. "The Commission contends that it considered each element required by the regulations. The Commission considers first whether it believes the project can be constructed and operated on the proposed site without impacts to water quality. The Court finds the Commission did in fact consider the cumulative impacts of these projects on the Bay of St. Louis," Randall ruled.

The Casino World project is planned on a 404-acre site south of Diamondhead. Proposed is a luxury hotel and spa, a sports and entertainment center, a recreational vehicle park and nine-hole golf course and two gambling barges that would be moored in the north Bay of St. Louis.

him to stop.

"Officer Hearty observed the youth drop a black shirt to the ground," Corr said. "Hidden in the shirt was a 'blunt'—a cigar stuffed with marijuana and two clear plastic bags containing rock cocaine."

The juvenile was charged and released into the custody of his mother. Corr said a trial date has been set for Wednesday, August 4.

Europa — Survives proxy fight

one was expected to be less expensive since Europa chose not to retain the services of a proxy solicitation firm.

"However, in addition to actual costs incurred, these two proxy contests have totally consumed four months of management's time and effort... and... all forward movement in the Company comes to a complete halt."

Europa is currently in search of a venturing partner to develop the 404-acre Casino World tract, and Vitale said that progress was temporarily hampered by the proxy battle.

"While current management is proud to have received the overwhelming support of its shareholders, it must report that a proxy contest has once again delayed our forward movement," said Vitale. "Nevertheless, despite the proxy contest, McDonald & Company (the marketing solicitation firm) continued to move forward in Mississippi. Management is now free once again to devote its full time and attention to the enhancement of shareholder value," said Vitale.

The latest proxy battle was waged by former directors Jerry McCall, Jack Jevins, Brian D'Serna, Texas lawyer Jan R. Thurman and a man identified only as Vance Shaw, whose background was not immediately known.

Coastal — Clinic reopens

Mississippi's Congressional delegation asking national lawmakers to lobby for a renewed federal grant for funding the clinic.

In the meantime, Coastal's network of clinics in Harrison and Jackson County were flourishing following the resignations of key officials, and disharmony among its remaining staff members.

Coastal's Board of Directors advertised nationally for a new executive director and lured Joe Dawsey away from Mobile, Ala., where he operated six similar health clinics in April of 1996.

"It was only two weeks after I was aboard that Ms. Lang called me," recalled Dawsey. "She soon set up a meeting with the Boards of Supervisors, with Coastal's directors and with members of Hancock Medical Center, and set up a strategic plan with the number one priority of getting a clinic reopened in Hancock County."

"I guess she called me every Saturday after that," said Dawsey. "She kept after me."

Dawsey agreed to file an application asking the U.S. Public Health Service for $236,000 to reopen the clinic, but the application was denied for funding in 1996.

Dawsey promised to reapply, and learned in October of 1997 that Coastal had received a $549,000, 15-month grant to reopen in Hancock County.

Since then, Dawsey has been searching for a suitable location and hiring personnel to staff the center.

Dr. Massoud Khan will serve as internist at the clinic; Dr. Harriet Murphy will be the part-time pediatrician, assisted by nurse practitioner Ann Johnson; nurses Betty Albert, Staci Paez and Sarah Paez are also aboard, along with lab technician, Jim Rogers, and two clerical aides, Melinda Ladner and Donna Searles.

Dawsey said, Carla Wilkerson of Bay St. Louis will serve as the clinic's out-reach worker and comes aboard on Monday. He's also working with Hancock Medical Center to get clinic doctors on staff.

There were ohs and ahs Wednesday by those touring the gleaming new offices, with pale walls and wine-colored furniture and examining rooms with wallpaper borders.

"Now, we've got to promote it to the people," said Lang. "We've got to let them know that we're here."

Lang seemed pleased that the clinic has finally reopened, but lamented her work isn't through yet.

She said she now plans to lobby to provide transportation for the needy, especially those who live in the far reaches of Hancock County who might have trouble getting to the clinic.

division for ages six and under. All fish must be caught by the participants on the day of the rodeo in any waters in the area from piers, shoreline, boats or waiting.

Sportsman's Club members will handle the scales, and the weighmaster's decisions are final.

Each participant will also receive a free hot dog and coke, Perniciaro said.

Trophies will be given for first, second and third place in each category, and drawings will be held for a large number of prizes.

Scales will close at 5 p.m. Many of the prizes for the rodeo have been donated to the Sportsman's Club by local merchants.

Perniciaro said if any merchants are interested in making a donation or contribution, they may contact him at 467-5524.

Mississippi FSA launches informational web site

Mississippi FSA State Director David S. Warrington, announced the state has developed an informational web site for the state's producers and the public.

"With more and more farmers and members of the public utilizing the Internet, we felt it was important that we expand our outreach capabilities and provide information related to Farm Service Agency programs and agriculture on the Internet," said Warrington. The site, located at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/eds/ms/ms.htm>, is linked to the national Farm Service Agency web site and contains a variety of information and data related to Farm Service Agency programs and links to many other agricultural agencies and agricultural related sites.

"We hope to see the site become a source of information for college, high school or school children putting together a report on agriculture in Mississippi," he said.

Foundation gets grant funding

The March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation has been awarded a $1.6 million Nonprofit Technology Software Grant from Microsoft Corporation. The grant helps large nonprofit organizations become more effective in their daily operations by providing a compatible software system for multiple office locations.

The Mississippi Chapter of the March of Dimes, which includes offices in Jackson, Tupelo and Gulfport, is one of 99 chapters nationwide that will benefit from the grant through improved efficiency, lower administrative costs and an enhanced ability to communicate both internally and externally.

For information, visit the March of Dimes Home Page on the World Wide Web at www.marchofdimes.org.

Suspect assists in arrest

BY B. R. HAWKINS
Criminal Investigator
Capt. George Burleson of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department said solving some cases are easier than others. An example of an easier one is the case of a series of burglaries on Whitfield Road.

Burleson said a construction company reported items being stolen off and on throughout the month of July. The company owner told deputies he suspected an employee and had given the man an option of returning the items or face charges.

Burleson said the employee, Ralph Alan Cooley, 41, of Piquette went to the Piquette police station and told officers there he had committed a burglary in Hancock County and gave the name of the pawn shop where he had pawned the items.

Burleson said Cooley was holding pawn tickets from shops in Piquette, Gulfport and Waveland.

Cooley was placed under arrest and was scheduled to be transported to Hancock County Monday.
